Hess Declares He Tried to End War With Great Britain

Says He Planned Flight to Britain Year Before Germany's Attack Upon Russia

NUERNBERG, Dec. 8 (AP).—Rudolf Hess declared today that he flew to England to try to halt the fight between two "noble races"—England and Germany—and not to enlist

British aid in the attack on Russia, as widely believed.

Hess asserted he had planned the flight for nearly a year before the invasion of Russia, and even had taken off for England several times from June, 1940, onward. but each time was forced back by bad weather. The suc-cessful attempt came on May 10, 1941. The former No. 3 Nazi, and self-confessed amnesia faker,

This Is Our Canada

(A Guest Editorial)

This ist our Canada. We would like to see a united Canada, with homes of God-fearing people who have, for themselves and for their children, the opportunity of living useful and satisfying lives. It must be a Canada within the British Commonwealth and Empire, preferably with a flag of its own. The Canada we desire is one without class distinction, wherein there will be equal opportunity for all.

In this kind of a world, Canada will need to be adequately defended from unprovoked aggression. There should be universal mili-tary training for at least a year, and higher standards of physical fitness throughout.

After satisfactory provision has been madefor her own people. Canada must one day open her doors to a selected immigration.

from stocks that will be truly assimilable.

In our view, there should be considerably more attention paid to the development of the primary industries of Canada, upon which so much of our external trade depends and by means of which so many of our people live. The lot of the farmer, the miner, the lumberman and the fisherman could and should be improved. Prosperous farms mean a prosperous nation. Out of the mines should come human satisfaction, as well as dividends.

There is need of uniform standards of schooling throughout Canada, with a wider system. Promising students should be advanced as far as they can go in education. The merit system should apply at all points. A great deal more could be done in the schools to develop a Canadian national outlook. Sports should be designed to include all of the student body actively. The social side of school life should be developed.

Nationally, the homes of Canada should be its strength. Too many outside diversions have not contributed to the development of a satisfactory home life. The primary preparation for life must start in the home. It is there that character is formed. Good homes make good citizens. Outdoor activities of a desirable nature are also necessary to develop healthy and clean-thinking young men and Above all, our nation must be honest with itself. In politics, in business, in all human relations there should be only one standard of conduct, the best. If promises are made, they should be kept. The Golden Rule they should be kept. The Golden Rule should be observed, and put into daily use. What is required is a clearer national vision, and the courage to work for its realization unitedly and with high hope. Canada has the brightest opportunities of any land. Let us use them, together.

We Need That Arena!

(A Guest Editorial)

Victoria has had two ice arenas: used them, liked them, and satched both burn down. Nearly two years ago the opportunity to en joy indoor skating, or to watch Canada's national pastime — ice hockey — disappeared. Since then a considerable sum has been raised by the public to replace the arena. There have been proposals and counter proposals, a by-law passed by a handsome majority, and still there is no arena. It is time for action

Not so long ago Victoria was the home of the Cougars, champion ice hockey team in all That team developed from scratch on local ice. It took the world's championship. Other ice hockey teams since then have started here, but, without facilities for training, have been denied their real change. toria boys have gone to Nanaimo to train for league fixtures on the Mainland. When will they be able to train at home

Ice skating is popular in this community The lack of an arena is felt keenly by young and old alike. No city of comparative size in Canada can afford to remain without facilities for a fine, clean sport and healthful recreation. Arguments over a site could go on forever, but that will not bring an arena Surely this is one thing that Victoria can do for itself, without further delay.

Dissolution of the National Was Finance Committee, which organized the Victory loans and promoted the sale of savings stamps and certificates throughout the war, is an in-dication that the Ninth Victory Loan which resulted in the unprecedented sum of two bil-lion dollars being subscribed by the people of Canada for postwar rehabilitation purp is the last such loan-contemplated by the Don Government.

The House of Commons last week paid deserved tribute to the committee, on which at various times served some of the most outstanding men in the business and financial life of the country. Associated with the commit tee have been thousands of individuals and are also due for their efforts in raising the vast amounts necessary for the prosecution of the war. Back of all, of course, has been the willing sacrifice of the people of this country unstintedly of the dollars needed for victory. It is reported that the promotion of some regular savings campaign is under considera-tion, to follow the completion of Ninth Loan payments next Fall. Provincial authorities are to be consulted as to the desirability of continuing the sale of savings stamps in the schools, for example, with the object of teaching children savings habits.

benefit of definitely assigned savings as a result of participation in war loans. Undoubtedly by such means against personal emergencies is made to an extent nor likely otherwise, and in all probability a savings scheme of some sort, albeit on a smaller scale would meet with considerable approval. The success of a peacetime savings loan, however, depends on speedy reduction of the present heavy taxation rates. Peacetime incomes will not be those of wartime, and individuals, no natter how willing, cannot save what they do not have.

Preventable Deaths

The statement by President Truman that more American lives have been lost on the highways than on the battlefields emphasizes the actual hazards of modern automobile, travel. In 1943 in Great Britain 122,536 were killed or injured in road acci-Over a ten-year period ending in 1942 330,000 persons in the United States died from the same cause. Canadian road casualties do not reach these proportions but they are sufficiently numerous to warrant considerable apprehension.

It is an amazing fact that nations which rightfully regard war with horror because of appalling sacrifice of life, seem to accept with complacence a circumstance equally fatal over a long period. If one-hundredth part of the effort needed to combat war were expended on the prevention of accidents, highways would soon cease to be the danger to life and limb that they are. The combination of good roads and high-speed cars presents a serious problem that deserves the continued attention of governing authorities everywhere.

The Lights of Home

What mortal, spent with the day, is not cheered by the distant lights of home? Unconsciously his pace will quicken, his eyes brighten and his thoughts leap ahead to that haven which is his refuge from all of the world. Be it great or small, well placed or ill, home is a world in itself to those who cross its hearthstone. Let the weather storm as it will outside, let the world prove what it may, to most individuals home is the prize which compensates them for the stress of the day, the travail of the times.

The dwellings on a hillside never mean so much as when the day is done, and night omes with her long cloak to mantle the land. The distant, Winking lights beckon the wayfarer, drawing him on. They may spell out to him the joys and the sorrows of almost a lifetime. but they will ever be refreshing and new. The gleam of hope that sparks most lives shines steadfastly through casement and fanlight: telling first of a refuge where the world is not, where the frets and the worries of the day cannot enter, and where body and soul may restore the courage needed to face

At Christmas, when colored lights spring up like strange blossoms on the hillside, the lights of home take on their fullest meaning. For there is good cheer, and the best of wishes for a weary, war-torn world.

Seen in Passing

Guest editorials on this page today were dictated and edited by three young members of Victoria High School, two girls and a boy. Taking their parts ably in "Future Citizens Day." Shirley Fennell, Barbara Bell and Ritchie leQuesne, identified with the High School paper "The Camosunet," put in a long, hard day. We think that the results speak for themselves. Here, in part, is what youth is thinking, about Canada, about Victoria, about the world in this day. The ex-perience, moreover, will be mutually profiable, as it must have been elsewhere in the city yesterday as youth took over the helm.

The reason why Britain visualizes the need for a new inland waterway is that in 1966 the Sues Canal, now the concession of a private company run predominantly by French interests, will revert to Egypt, without any strings attached.

"Miracle" Operation May Save Bright-Eyed Invalid Child

OPERATION FIRST

OPERATION FIRST
DONE IN 1944

The so-called "Malock Operation performed on Judy was first done November 29, 1944, after its discovery by Dr. Bialock and Dr. Helen
B. Taussess, head of the Cardiac Clinic at the Harriet Lame Home for invalid children at Hopkins.
The operation began at 8 am today and took less time than usual Special clamps devised by Dr. Bialock and an assistant simplified the surcor's tack of sugmenting the dericient supply of blood to Judy's lungs by severing a good artery and attaching it to a defective one.
Once it had been done, the surgcouse fingers could feel a steady thrill as blood coursed through the new route to her lungs. By 10.45 her right time toollapsed during the operation) was expanded again, the lackion sewed and Judy on her way back to her room.

know when the big news will break -but Eddy is Ready with a plan that will mean an equal chance for all - fair play for every woman in Victoria. We don't know how many pairs we will receive, but we think "it won't be long now" so we've completed our plan which we think will please everyone. We don't want Eddy customers to stand in tiresome queues, we want the working girl to have the same chance as the housewife. Come in to Eddy's this week, the sooner the better. We will give you a card on which to write your name and address and your stocking size-and as soon as we know our quota, we will draw that number of cards from the total enrollments and the lucky ladies will be notified to come and get their Nylons! No need to make any purchase to get in on our plan.
